

Porch (PTC patent)

Enhanced versatility – without compromises!

The versatility of the Tentipi® Nordic tipis now becomes further enhanced, without compromising on any of the safety aspects that our tents are so famous for.

The porch gives a dry entry into the tent and provides a place for shoes and other items.

When the apse is completely opened, there is still a rain protected area under the porch with a 180 degree view.

A Tentipi® Nordic tipi has astonishing storm resistance due to its symmetrical shape and heavy-duty construction. Therefore we have not made the porch an integrated part of the tent but designed it to be easily attached and removed. This also makes it possible to reduce the weight.

Porch key features

- The versatility of the Tentipi® Nordic tipi is further enhanced with functions that also suit more stationary campers.
- Any rain water running from the tip of the tent is diverted from the door opening.
- It is possible to open up the apse completely which offers a 180 degree view.
- The porch can easily be removed without taking down the tent, e.g. if there is a risk of snow or bad weather.
- The porch is an optional extra.
- It is securely and neatly attached to the accessory sleeve (PCT patent) which is a standard feature on our tent models Zirkon and Safir from 2012 on.

New feature 2013

Greatly improved in many ways – attaches very securely, making a better seal against the tent and ground. Higher arch which is easier to assemble. Slightly shorter porch for better stability.

Order an accessory connector for models made before 2012 and for Onyx.
